The US Fulbright program, created by Congress in 1946, enables American students to study or conduct research in over 100 nations. Personal development and international experience for those who may not otherwise have such opportunity are key to the overwhelming success of the program.

Fulbright Fellows are provided with the opportunity to meet and work with people of the host country, sharing daily as well as professional and creative insights. The program promotes cross-cultural interaction and mutual understanding on a person-to-person basis in an atmosphere of openness, academic integrity, and intellectual freedom.

In 2005-06, the Monterey Institute was ranked as the #1 school in the US (MA-level, non-research based institutions) for Fulbright recipients; in 2006-07, the Institute was ranked #3.
